

CHAPTER lii.

An Act for the Abandonment of the Works authorised by the A.D. 1879.
East Cornwall Mineral Railway Act, 1876; and for other purposes. [3d July 1879.]

WHEREAS by the East Cornwall Mineral Railway Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict.
(in this Act called "the Act of 1876,") the East Cornwall c. ccxl.
Mineral Railway Company (in this Act called "the Company") were authorised to make certain alterations in the levels of their existing railway and of certain public carriage-roads crossing that railway, and also to make and maintain certain new railways, in the reciting Act called "the extension railways," which were constituted a separate undertaking of the Company, with a separate capital ("the extensions capital"), proprietary and borrowing powers:

And whereas the Company have not exercised the power so conferred upon them of altering the levels of their railway and of the said roads, nor have they acquired any land for or executed any works connected with the extension railways, or raised any part of the extensions capital, and they are unable to raise the necessary funds for the said works and railways, and it is expedient that they be authorised to abandon the same; but that object cannot be effected without the authority of Parliament:

May it therefore please Your Majesty that it may be enacted; and be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal,
